The above references concern the processing of a restitution case under [redacted] law. Prior dispatches anticipated the passage of a new law which would extend the term in which claims could be filed, the prior statute having expired on 30 June 1950. The aforesaid prior dispatches requested action by Headquarters in two respects: (a) the execution of a power of attorney in the event that subject wished an indigenous attorney to present his claim before the appropriate body and (b) furnishing a complete statement of all the circumstances regarding his incarceration by [redacted] authorities. It is our understanding that [redacted] who is now in your area will present the latter to you to assist in forwarding necessary papers to indigenous counsel. The power of attorney is forwarded herewith duly executed by the claimant in accordance with the instructions contained in prior dispatches.
